PREFACE

As far as I am aware no English translation of Marathi Proverbs has been published hitherto; nor is there any very complete list to be found in the vernacular. The only excuse which can be offered for the issue of this work is the importance of preserving as far as possible all proverbial expressions, which depict the thought and character of the people, before they pass out of use altogether; for although they are well known to the elders of the present generation, they will probably be less known, less loved, and less used by the coming race, with its Anglicised education and its modern literature. This collection does not pretend to contain all the Marathi sayings to be heard in Western India, but it is believed to include a majority of those which are worth preserving. Many which did not seem to deserve the title of proverb have been omitted; those of a coarse nature, the translation of which would offend the taste of English readers, have been excluded, for no good purpose would be served by making them more generally known or by helping to prolong their existence; but those which are given have been gleaned from any source which offered, generally from books, but also from individuals, male and female, caste and non-caste. Although it has been my wish not to exclude any really good proverb, nor to include any worthless or undesirable saying, doubtless mistakes in these respects will be discovered; and I have also no doubt that other errors of omission and commission will be detected by the critical reader.

The classification of proverbs has always been a difficulty. The aim here has been to arrange them according to their subject-matter. For instance, a saying which speaks of the hand or foot or head has been placed under 'The Body and its Members'; one referring to fever under 'Disease.' When two subjects happen to be spoken of in one proverb, its classification has been, I fear, a matter of fate. But, in spite of the disadvantages and difficulties of this arrangement, it is on the whole preferable to the alphabetical plan, and is more helpful to the student who wants to trace as many sayings as possible relating to one subject. Foreign proverbs are not easy to remember, nor easy to quote with accuracy; the beginning of a phrase will often slip from the mind even when an important word of it is remembered. In this case, and, indeed, whenever a particular saying is wanted, it is best to turn to the index of words and there trace it by its number.

I would caution the reader against expecting to find any proverbial characteristic in the English translation. Neither in the matter of conciseness nor of rhythm, and, in the majority of instances, in no respect whatever, will the translation read like a proverb. I have only tried to give the literal meaning of the original in English.

The work of collecting, translating, and arranging these proverbs has occupied my spare moments for some years, and in it I have received very valuable assistance from many Indian friends, without whom it could not have been done, and to whom I tender sincere and hearty thanks. For the mistakes which have crept in, be they many or few, the blame must fall on myself only.

(a) PRODUCE.

१ अंगपेक्षा बोंगा मोठा

Āṅgāpekṣā boṅgā moṭhā

The protuberance is larger than the body. Something out of proportion, e.g. a load larger than the man who carries it. Bōnga is used of the inner part of an ear of Indian corn. 507, 514.

२ अंबळा देऊन कोव्हाळा काढणार

Avalā deūna kovhālā kāḍhaṇāra

To give a myrobalan and to receive a vegetable-marrow. To obtain much in return for little. The myrobalan is Phyllanthus emblica: the kovhālā is a gourd, Cucurbita pepo. Sometimes Bel fruit is quoted instead of kovhālā.

३ अंबळा पिकायाचा नाही समुद्र सुकायाचा नाही

Avalā pikāyātsā nāhī samudra sukāyātsā nāhī

The myrobalan never ripens, the sea never dries. Impossibilities never come to pass. 783.

४ असतील फळे तर होतील बिले

Asatila phale tara hotila bile

Where there is grain there will be holes. Literally 'fruits' but meaning 'grain.' Where it is stored rats, &c., will come. There will be many outlets by which wealth will disappear. 231.

5 आठ हात कांकडी नऊ हात बी

Āṭha hāta kākadī naū hāta bī

A cucumber eight cubits long, its seed nine cubits! Exaggeration. Sometimes twelve and thirteen respectively are the numbers used.
1843.

6 आवे आले पाडा ते गेले गडा

Āmbe āle pādā te gele gadā

The mangoes are just ripe and the master is away at the fort. Applied when a thing has come to perfection, e.g. a young wife, and he who should enjoy it is absent. The last three words are sometimes—nimbuṇī ālyā rasā (the limes are full of juice).

7 उसांत जाऊन वाढें आणणें

Usānta zāūna vādhe āṇaṇe

Going into a field of sugar-cane and bringing back only the top spray. To go where good things are plentiful and bring away something useless.

8 उसाबरोबर एरंडाला पाणी

Usābarobara eraṇḍālā pāṇī

The castor-oil plant gets water when the sugar-cane does. It is planted by the water-channel in the field of sugar-cane and grows up at the same time. The poor derive benefit when associated with the rich.

9 उंस गोड मुळ्या सोड

Ūsa goda mulyā sōḍa

The sugar-cane is sweet but leave the roots. Do not utterly beggar a benevolent man.

10 एक गहू प्रकार बड

23 पिकेल जोण तर खारेल कोण

O buffalo! why are you pulling me?

Thereby hangs a tale. A man used to be continually threatening his wife that he would leave the house and go away from her. A friend hinted that she should let him go, assuring her that he would not stay away long. Acting on this suggestion the next time her husband spoke of leaving her she told him to go. Surprised and mortified he went; and coming to the bank of the river he sat down there to think over the difficulty he had foolishly got himself into. Presently the village buffaloes came down to drink, his own among them. He now saw, as he thought, a way of getting home without humbling himself.

The plan was this, that as his buffalo had to go through the house to its yard at the back he would pretend that it was pulling him home against his will. So he followed the animal till it was near the door of the house, then he seized it by the tail and began shouting—‘O buffalo! why are you pulling me?’ In this way he tried to convince his wife that although he had returned it was against his wish. There was no more threatening after that.

The story is that a camel was loaded on one side with green vegetables and on the other with earthen pots. On the journey the potter saw the camel frequently turn its head and nibble at the vegetables; it amused him so much that at last, being a foolish man, he laughed heartily at his friend the green-grocer. The latter, being a man of discernment, said nothing at first; but at mid-day when they stopped to rest the camel took it into its head to lie down, and what must it needs do but lie down on the side where the pots were, smashing them all to atoms; then he looked at the potter and remarked dryly, 'There's no telling on which side a camel will lie down.'

110 चंटावरचा शहाणा

Uṇṭāvaratsā śahāṇā

A wise man on a camel. One who gives foolish advice.

Taken from the following story. In a certain village there was a man who kept a large earthen jar (a rāñjan) of water in the yard near his house. One day his buffalo went to drink out of it, but as it could not reach the water a person standing by gave its head a push and the horns became so fixed inside the rāñjan that it could not get its head out again. Here was a fix. No one knew what to do so that the buffalo might be free, and the master was away from home. At last there came along a man riding on a camel, who hearing what the difficulty was, said—'Never mind, if you let me and my camel in, I will soon set the animal free.' The doorway into the compound was small, but the man said—'Knock it down; that can be rebuilt, but a dead buffalo can't be brought to life again.' So they knocked down the doorway for the man on the camel to go in. After looking on a moment he suggested the remedies which the others had already tried, till, seeing that they were useless, he said—'I can do nothing more; rather than let the buffalo die like this, better kill it.' To this the woman of the house agreed, as they could think of nothing else. So he killed it; but still the head was inside the rāñjan. What could be done? A happy thought occurred to him that if he smashed the rāñjan the head would come out. He suggested this and they all agreed. Meanwhile the master came along and looked with dismay at the desolation around him; his wall broken down, his buffalo lying dead and his rāñjan smashed to pieces! It had not occurred to this wiseacre to get off his camel before entering the doorway, and to break the rāñjan instead of killing the buffalo. The master would have quarrelled with him, but he was a Muhammadan and he could do nothing; so he let him go and hence the proverb.

This is supposed to be taken from an old story in which it is a títve (a bird), and not a cockroach, that gives rise to the proverb. A few eggs that a bird had laid were washed away by the sea, at which she was greatly annoyed. Going to the sea she said, 'Give me back my eggs or I will destroy you.' The sea would not listen, but on the contrary became very rough. At this she was still more angry, and formed the determination of emptying the whole ocean. Taking the water up in her beak she began to fling it aside; meanwhile her mate flying up and seeing that she was very angry said to her, 'What are you doing, foolish one?' She said the sea had taken her eggs and refused to restore them; and she asked him to join her in emptying out the water. He answered, 'We are only small birds, how can we do this?' Yet he began to help her. By and by, Nārād, the god of quarrels, came along, and after hearing their story approved of what they were doing; indeed, he thought they would not be worthy of the name of birds unless they took revenge. He also went to the eagle and said, 'If you have any sense of honour at all among birds, go and help these two títves.' So the eagle came with his army of birds and they all joined in the work of emptying out the water. Matters began to grow serious; the fish were afraid. They prayed to Vishnu, and in answer to their prayers Parasharam came and protected them and compelled the sea to give back the eggs. Thus ended the quarrel.

From a tale which is told that in the time of Nānā Phadnis, who was diligent in suppressing robberies in Poona, some thieves agreed together to show that they could outwit him. Although the city gates were closed at nine every evening they managed to rob an old woman of all she had, and to carry her through the crowded streets and out of the closed gates. They did it by providing themselves with a bier on which they tied her. As they carried her along she kept screaming out—'The wretches have robbed my house;' but the bearers, as is the custom in funeral processions, kept shouting also. Instead of the usual refrain, they chanted the words—'Go on saying it, old lady!' Her cries were not heard, and the thieves succeeded in getting through the gates as for a funeral.

Fate began to give and (they had) no lap in which to receive.

There were once an old man and woman and a boy who were so poor that they lived in a quarry. These poor people heard that a very holy man, who used to pass every day, had power with God and pleaded for his help. He listened, and went to pray for them. Hearing his plea, God promised that they should have whatever they asked—one was to ask on each day, beginning with the woman, then the man, and then the boy. Being told this, they sat up all night deliberating as to what they should ask for. They were so poor that it seemed to be useless to ask for life, and yet if they asked for money they might not live.

At last the old woman made up her mind, and in the morning, much to the surprise of the devotee, she prayed that she might become young again: she thought this better than money. Her request was at once granted. But that day a prince came there hunting, and when he saw such a beautiful girl, he asked who she was, and could hardly believe that the old man was her husband. So he said to her—'Come with me and I will make you queen.' The old man seeing her go off with the prince was horrified, but determined to have his revenge next day. When the time came for him to make request, he asked that his wife might be turned into a pig. Here was the prince's beautiful wife turned into a pig. They quickly tied her to a string and sent her back to the old man, from whom she received a sound beating. Next day the boy's turn came to ask, and when he thought of all the misery the previous asking had brought, the only request he cared to make was that they might all be allowed to live in their former state. This they did, and the saying arose that 'fate is ready to give, but we have no lap in which to receive.'

A story is told that a certain man underwent austerities for twelve years, after which God was favourable to him. When asked what he would have, he answered, 'wealth.' God promised to give it. The man further asked that he might receive it that very day before sunset. This also was granted. Away went the man, and on the path by which he had to go God placed a large vessel full of gold mohurs. Now as the man went along he began to wonder how blind men walk. Shutting his eyes he picked his way along the path until his foot struck the vessel containing the gold. Thinking it was a stone he kicked it aside and went on. At last evening came and he had not received the riches, at which he was very indignant. But God told him the fault was his own; gold had been placed before him and he had kicked it aside.

He thereupon decided not to drink the town water, but to go daily to a small stream a few miles off for the water he used. One day while there the angel Death appeared, and he was greatly afraid. Death told him not to fear as he had not come to fetch him. Being reassured he ventured to ask where he would die, and was told he would die where he then stood. To avoid this he sold everything and went to live in another town. One day while living in the town he went for a ride on a mare, which ran away with him and threw him on to the spot which he so dreaded, and there he was killed.

PRINTER TO THE UNIVERSITY

SACRED BOOKS OF THE EAST

TRANSLATED BY VARIOUS ORIENTAL SCHOLARS

AND EDITED BY

THE RIGHT HON. F. MAX MÜLLER.

 This Series is published with the sanction and co-operation of the Secretary of State for India in Council.*

REPORT presented to the ACADEMIE DES INSCRIPTIONS, May 11, 1883, by M. ERNEST RENAN.

'M. Renan présente trois nouveaux volumes de la grande collection des "Livres sacrés de l'Orient" (Sacred Books of the East), que dirige à Oxford, avec une si vaste érudition et une critique si sûre, le savant associé de l'Académie des Inscriptions, M. Max Müller. . . La première série de ce beau recueil, composée de 24 volumes, est presque achevée. M. Max Müller se propose d'en publier une seconde, dont l'intérêt historique et religieux ne sera pas moindre. M. Max Müller a su se procurer la collaboration des savans les plus éminens d'Europe et d'Asie. L'Université d'Oxford, que cette grande publication honore au plus haut degré, doit tenir à continuer dans les plus larges proportions une œuvre aussi philosophiquement conçue que savamment exécutée.'

EXTRACT from the QUARTERLY REVIEW.

'We rejoice to notice that a second series of these translations has been announced and has actually begun to appear. The stones, at least, out of which a stately edifice may hereafter arise, are here being brought together. Prof. Max Müller has deserved well of scientific history. Not a few minds owe to his enticing words their first attraction to this branch of study. But no work of his, not even the great edition of the Rig-Veda, can compare in importance or in usefulness with this English translation of the Sacred Books of the East, which has been devised by his foresight, successfully brought so far by his persuasive and organising power, and will, we trust, by the assistance of the distinguished scholars he has gathered round him, be carried in due time to a happy completion.'

Professor E. HARDY, Inaugural Lecture in the University of Freiburg, 1887.

'Die allgemeine vergleichende Religionswissenschaft datirt von jenem grossartigen, in seiner Art einzig dastehenden Unternehmen, zu welchem auf Anregung Max Müllers im Jahre 1874 auf dem internationalen Orientalistencongress in London der Grundstein gelegt worden war, die Übersetzung der heiligen Bücher des Ostens' (the Sacred Books of the East).

The Hon. ALBERT S. G. CANNING, 'Words on Existing Religions.'

'The recent publication of the "Sacred Books of the East" in English is surely a great event in the annals of theological literature.'

AT THE CLARENDON PRESS

LONDON: HENRY FROWDE

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS WAREHOUSE, AMEN CORNER, E.C.

FIRST SERIES.

VOL. I. The Upanishads.

Translated by F. MAX MÜLLER. Part I. The Khândogya-upanishad, The Talavakâra-upanishad, The Aitareya-âranyaka, The Kaushîtaki-brâhmana-upanishad, and The Vâgasaneyi-samhitâ-upanishad. Second Edition. 8vo, cloth, 10s. 6d.

The Upanishads contain the philosophy of the Veda. They have become the foundation of the later Vedânta doctrines, and indirectly of Buddhism. Schopenhauer, speaking of the Upanishads, says: 'In the whole world there is no study so beneficial and so elevating as that of the Upanishads. It has been the solace of my life, it will be the solace of my death.'

[See also Vol. XV.]

VOL. II. The Sacred Laws of the Âryas,

As taught in the Schools of Âpastamba, Gautama, Vâsishtha, and Baudhâyana. Translated by GEORG BÜHLER. Part I. Âpastamba and Gautama. Second Edition. 8vo, cloth, 10s. 6d.

The Sacred Laws of the Âryas contain the original treatises on which the Laws of Manu and other lawgivers were founded.

[See also Vol. XIV.]

VOL. III. The Sacred Books of China.

The Texts of Confucianism. Translated by JAMES LEGGE. Part I. The Shû King, The Religious Portions of the Shih King, and The Hsiâo King. 8vo, cloth, 12s. 6d.

Confucius was a collector of ancient traditions, not the founder of a new religion. As he lived in the sixth and fifth centuries B. C. his works are of unique interest for the study of Ethology.

[See also Vols. XVI, XXVII, XXVIII, XXXIX, and XL.]

VOL. IV. The Zend-Avesta.

Translated by JAMES DARMESTETER. Part I. The Vendîdâd. Second Edition. 8vo, cloth, 14s.

The Zend-Avesta contains the relics of what was the religion of Cyrus, Darius, and Xerxes, and, but for the battle of Marathon, might have become the religion of Europe. It forms to the present day the sacred book of the Parsis, the so-called fire-worshippers.

[See also Vols. XXIII and XXXI.]

VOL. V. Pahlavi Texts.

Translated by E. W. WEST. Part I. The Bundahis, Bahman Yast, and Shâyast lâ-shâyast. 8vo, cloth, 12s. 6d.

The Pahlavi Texts comprise the theological literature of the revival of Zoroaster's religion, beginning with the Sassanian dynasty. They are important for a study of Gnosticism.

[See also Vols. XVIII, XXIV, XXXVII, and XLVII.]

VOLS. VI AND IX. The Qur'ân.

Parts I and II. Translated by E. H. PALMER. 8vo, cloth, 21s.

This translation, carried out according to his own peculiar views of the origin of the Qur'ân, was the last great work of E. H. Palmer, before he was murdered in Egypt.

[* * Vols. VI and IX can only be supplied as part of a complete set of the First Series.]

VOL. VII. The Institutes of Vishnu.

Translated by JULIUS JOLLY. 8vo, cloth, 10s. 6d.

A collection of legal aphorisms, closely connected with one of the oldest Vedic schools, the Kathas, but considerably added to in later time. Of importance for a critical study of the Laws of Manu.

VOL. VIII. The Bhagavadgîtâ, with The Sanatsugâtîya, and The Anugîtâ.

Translated by KÂSHINÂTH TRIMBAK TELANG. Second Edition. 8vo, cloth, 10s. 6d.

The earliest philosophical and religious poem of India. It has been paraphrased in Arnold's 'Song Celestial.'

VOL. X. The Dhammapada,

Translated from Pâli by F. MAX MÜLLER; and

The Sutta-Nipâta,

Translated from Pâli by V. FAUSBÖLL; being Canonical Books of the Buddhists. Second Edition. 8vo, cloth, 10s. 6d.

The Dhammapada contains the quintessence of Buddhist morality. The Sutta-Nipâta gives the authentic teaching of Buddha on some of the fundamental principles of religion.

VOL. XI. Buddhist Suttas.

Translated from Pāli by T. W. RHYS DAVIDS. 1. The Mahā-parinibbāna Suttanta; 2. The Dhamma-kakka-ppavattana Sutta. 3. The Tevigga Suttanta; 4. The Ākaṅkheyya Sutta; 5. The Ketokhila Sutta; 6. The Mahā-sudassana Suttanta; 7. The Sabbāsava Sutta. 8vo, cloth, 10s. 6d.

A collection of the most important religious, moral, and philosophical discourses taken from the sacred canon of the Buddhists.

Translated by JULIUS EGGELING. Part I. Books I and II. 8vo, cloth, 12s. 6d.

A minute account of the sacrificial ceremonies of the Vedic age. It contains the earliest account of the Deluge in India.

[See also Vols. XXVI, XLI, XLIII, and XLIV.]

VOL. XIII. Vinaya Texts.

Translated from the Pāli by T. W. RHYS DAVIDS and HERMANN OLDENBERG. Part I. The Pātimokkha. The Mahāvagga, I-IV. 8vo, cloth, 10s. 6d.

The Vinaya Texts give for the first time a translation of the moral code of the Buddhist religion as settled in the third century B.C.

[See also Vols. XVII and XX.]

VOL. XIV. The Sacred Laws of the Āryas,

As taught in the Schools of Āpastamba, Gautama, Vāsishṭha, and Baudhāyana. Translated by GEORG BÜHLER. Part II. Vāsishṭha and Baudhāyana. 8vo, cloth, 10s. 6d.
